B. EXPERT WITNESSES

Scientific Games intends to present expert testimony from the following individuals:

Michael Keefe, Ph.D., P.E.
University of Delaware
Mechanical Engineering Department
Spencer Lab, Room 126
Newark, DE 19716

Professor Keefe is an expert in mechanical engineering and machine design. He will testify concerning the technology at issue, the teachings of the '337 and '624 patents, and the level of ordinary skill in the art to which the alleged inventions pertain. He will also testify concerning Scientific Games' PlayCentral machine and how that machine does not infringe the asserted claims of the '337 or '624 patents. He will also testify that the asserted claims of the '337 and '624 patents are anticipated or rendered obvious over the prior art. Professor Keefe will also rebut the testimony of GTECH's experts concerning the alleged infringement and validity of the patent in suit. Professor Keefe's opinions are summarized in his August 12, 2005, and September 16, 2005 expert reports.

Brad A. Myers, Ph.D.
Human-Computer Interaction Institute
School of Computer Science
Carnegie Mellon University
Pittsburgh, PA 15213-3891

Professor Myers is an expert in computer science and human-computer interaction. He will testify concerning the technology at issue, the teachings of the '624 patent, and the level of ordinary skill in the art to which the alleged invention pertains. He will also testify concerning Scientific Games' PlayCentral machine and how that machine does not infringe claim 18 of the '624 patent. He will also testify that claim 18 of the '624 patent is anticipated or rendered obvious over the prior art. Professor Myers will also rebut the testimony of GTECH's experts concerning the alleged infringement and validity of claim 18 of the '624 patent. Professor Myers' opinions are summarized in his August 11, 2005, and September 15, 2005 expert reports.

Marion B. Stewart, Ph.D.
National Economic Research Associates
1166 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10036

Dr. Stewart is an economist and Senior Vice President of National Economic Research Associates, Inc. ("NERA"). Dr. Stewart will testify concerning the damages that GTECH is entitled to recover for Scientific Games' alleged infringement of the '337 and '624 patents, assuming validity and infringement of the patents. Dr. Stewart's opinions are summarized in his September 16, 2005 expert report.
